
ART 221 – 3 credits

Creative Writing I

Description

This course is designed with a twofold purpose: First, it will encourage, instruct, and liberate those whom the Lord has called to minister to His Body and His world through the written word. Whether you are impelled to write fiction or nonfiction, poems or college textbooks, the Holy Spirit wants to be your Source and your inspiration. In addition, you will explore the relationship between your Christian faith and the arts in general. You will meditate on what the Scriptures say about the arts, and the place of beauty and pleasure in the life of the believer.

Texts

The Liberated Imagination by Leland Ryken

Write to Ignite by Deborah Joyner Johnson

Objectives:

- You will write something new.
- You will discuss the biblical doctrines and principles that relate to the arts and the attitude of the believer toward the arts.
- You will have an increased ability to integrate human culture with your Christian faith.
- You will more fully value the arts as conveyors of truth and examples of beauty.
- You will look at the doctrine of human creativity and its place as an expression of being created in the image of God.
- You will explore the place of the inspiration of the Holy Spirit in the work of the artist, both Christian and non-Christian.
- You will investigate the place of beauty and pleasure and the arts in the life of the believer.
- You will examine the relationship between the sacraments and the arts.

- You will explore ways in which artistic integrity can be preserved when art is used for worship and witnessing.
- You will develop standards by which you will recognize whether the production and enjoyment of art are glorifying to God, and by God's grace, everything you do will bring glory to your Lord.

Course Requirements:

1. Prayerfully read the text Write to Ignite as assigned. Complete the related exercises found here in your Student Notebook.

NOTE: You will be submitting the answers to all of the exercises for the course to your instructor for grading on completeness and use of two-way journaling. Prepare your answers in a way that is easiest to do this. You may type your answers in computer and submit them as email attachments. This is the preferred method of our CLU instructors. If you are not able to prepare your work on computer, you may submit a hard copy by postal service. However, if you do so, be sure to submit a COPY of your work (not the original), as there is no guarantee that it will not be lost in transit!

2. Carefully read the entire text The Liberated Imagination as assigned. There are no specific questions or exercises related to this text. Instead, you are to capture the essence of the content of each chapter in whatever format is easiest and most useful to you. You may outline the chapter, or write a summary of it, or simply list the development of thought. Include any specific definitions the author gives. As well as highlighting them in your text, write out in this summary any statements or quotations that particularly strike you.

After you have finished your academic summary of each chapter, quiet yourself before the Lord and ask Him what He wants to say to you from that chapter. In what way does He want you to apply what has been said to your life and your writing? What changes does He want to make in your attitudes and actions? What truth does He want you to take with you? Record what He says to you. (If you are not familiar with this type of journaling, you should take the course REN 103 Communion with God before continuing with any other classes.)

3. Write something. You may choose any type of writing that interests you most—essay, short story, poem, drama, fiction, nonfiction—whatever medium you want to use to express yourself. This is a course-long project, not something to toss off during the last week of the class. Begin immediately thinking and praying about what you want to write. Let the content determine the form. Allow your mind and heart to meditate upon the subject, incubating it, nurturing it, until it is ready to be “birthed.” Then reread it, proof it, edit it, and polish it until it is the best expression of your idea that you are able to present.

This will be submitted to your instructor in the final lesson, and will count for one-third of your course grade. If you want or need your instructor’s input on this project at any time during the course, feel free to contact him.

Standards for Grading Assignments

As indicated below, “C” or 2.0 level work is considered average. Leaders are not average people. You are therefore expected (required) to put forth the effort necessary to demonstrate at least “B” (3.0) level work or higher on all assignments which you submit. Any which do not will be returned to you with input from your instructor on how you can raise your grade to the expected level. A course grade will not be given until your assignments demonstrate that you have understood the material presented in the course and allowed your life to be transformed by the Spirit and the Word studied — the requirements for attaining a “B”.

Your individual assignments (notebooks, tests, reports) will be graded according to the following standards. These grades will be averaged together to determine your course grade. Remember, we are training leaders and leaders are above-average people. Your work will reflect that.

- “D”
 - Indicates barely passing work that is inferior to the average both in quantity and in quality.
 - Manifests a lack of initiative or sense of responsibility or both.
- “C”
 - Average work; either steady work of an acceptable quality, or work of a high quality which is uneven, irregular or fragmentary.
 - May be mechanically or outwardly correct but shows little reflection upon or personal assimilation of the material.
- “B”
 - Intelligently has fulfilled the requirements of this course.
 - Understands the subject matter presented and has applied it to his life in a limited manner but has not really made the truths his own.
- “A”
 - Grasped the material with thoroughness, industry and correctness of detail.
 - Made the material his own by thinking about it and integrating it, using originality, natural ability, and insight.
